ABSTRACT

Language is a communication tool used by humans. With language, humans can express opinions, express thoughts, communicate with each other, and exchange information. This article aims to analyze the song The 1975 entitled "I'm In Love With You". The method used in this study is a descriptive qualitative method. The method of data collection in this study is a literature study. The sources for this study are the internet and journal articles. The object of study is a song sung by The 1975 entitled "I Fall in Love with You." The results show that the figurative language of the song is dominated by the emphasis of the meaning and or intention of the author's feelings in the lyrics of the song and each word and or line that is figurative in nature the languages in it have a comparative meaning between denotative meaning and connotative meaning so as to provide an aesthetic impression and color value to the meaning of the song. The language referred to in figurative language means that there is figurative language that contains excessive meaning such as metaphors, contains double meanings or compares two or more people, even harsh words such as in the litotes figure of speech which states "you are stupid" which is contained in the lyrics of this song.

Keywords: lyrics; I'm in love with you; figurative language.
